Localizing websites is complex and slows global growth

The problem

- Connecting a website requires custom development
- Translation runs outside your normal web workflow
- Editors can't see how translations render before go-live
- Translated pages don't rank in search engines
- Every site update risks overwriting approved translations
- Quality degrades over time as the site evolves

AI agents help global teams move fast

Smartcat

What Smartcat does

- Works on any website with no connector or custom development required
- Fully automated workflow from crawling to publishing in one platform
- Real-time Visual Editor where changes render live in the actual page as you type
- Delivers translated pages as indexed HTML from day one
- Smart diffing detects only what changed and approved work is never overwritten
- Intelligence Fabric learns from your experts and improves with every update

Human Judgment. AI Precision.

Connect any website

Launch localized websites across markets without agency handoffs or IT projects. Any website, any market, up and running in minutes.

Translate using your institutional knowledge

The Intelligence Fabric learns from your experts and applies your approved terminology and brand voice to every segment automatically.

Review in the live page

Editors see translations render in real time as they type. Add an internal SME, external partner, or AI Review Agent wherever quality demands it.

Optimize for search

Every language version is delivered as indexed HTML, with hreflang injected automatically and SEO metadata editable in the product.

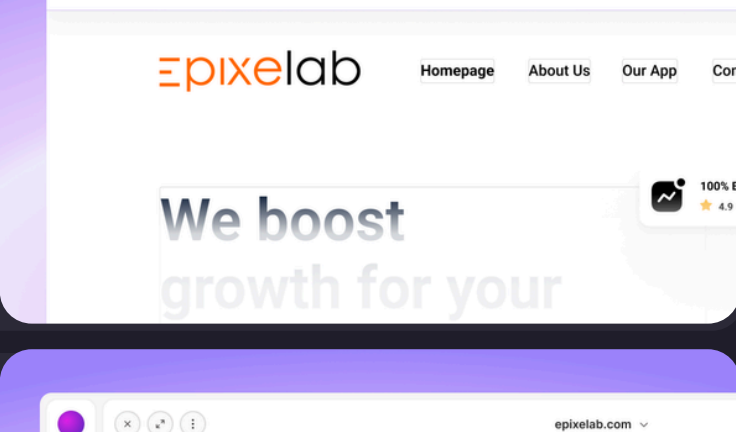

Stay current without losing quality

When content changes, the system detects only what's new. Approved translations are preserved and only net new content is billed.

The Smartcat Storyline Multi-Agent System: How It Works

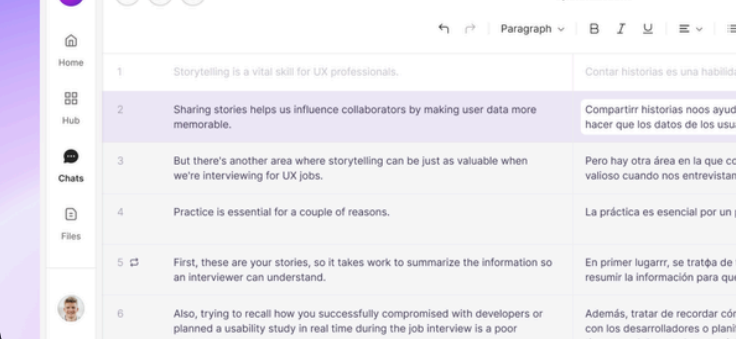

Connect your website

Point Smartcat to any website, no connector or custom development required. Configure via a simple DNS setup and start translating in minutes.

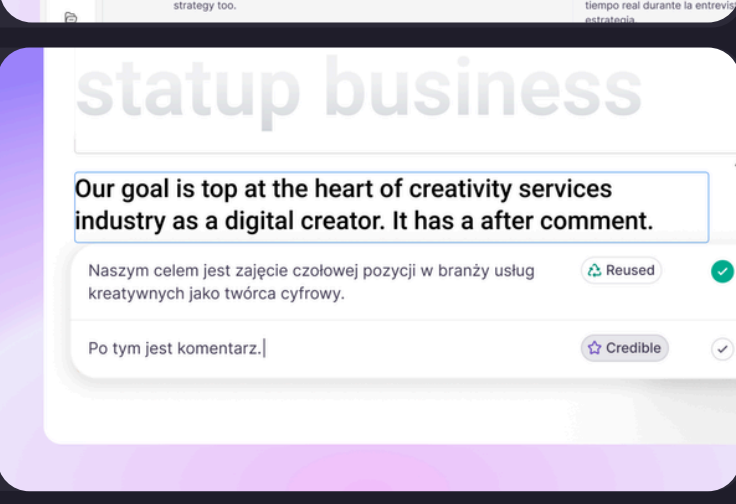

Content is translated automatically

The system crawls your site and applies your institutional knowledge (approved terminology, brand voice, and expert expertise) to every segment through the Smartcat Intelligence Fabric.

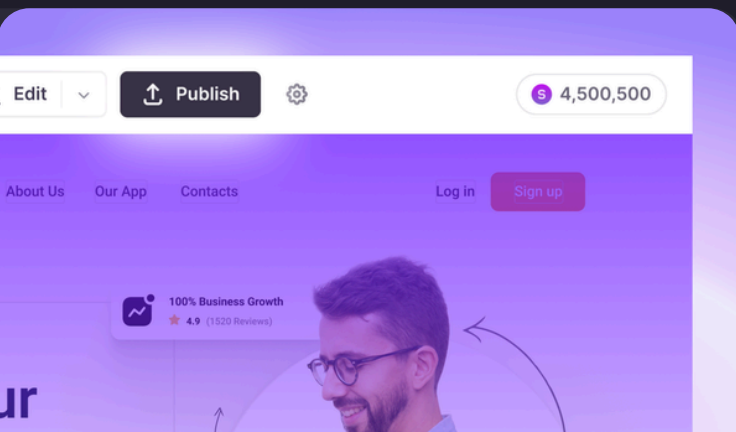

Review in context

Editors open any page in the Visual Editor and see translations render live as they type. Automated QA flags layout issues instantly. Add a reviewer wherever quality demands it.

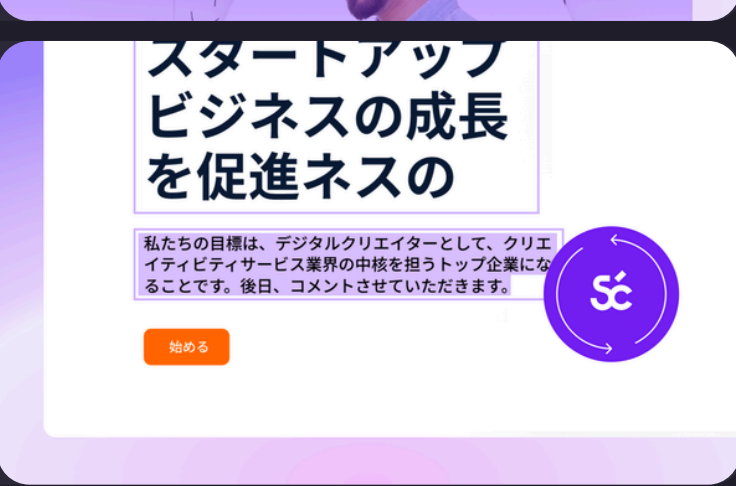

Publish and rank

Translated pages are delivered as server-side HTML, indexed by search engines, with hreflang injected automatically and SEO metadata editable in the product.

Updates are handled intelligently

When source content changes, only new or modified segments are translated and billed. Approved translations are preserved and reused automatically.

Business Impact Across the Organization

Faster time to market in new regions

Launch localized websites across markets without agency handoffs or IT projects. Any website, any market, up and running in minutes.

Lower costs than traditional agencies

Automated translation, smart reuse of approved content, and net new words billing make website localization significantly more cost-effective — and costs reduce further as the system learns.

Consistent compliance standards across every market

The Smartcat Intelligence Fabric applies your institutional knowledge and compliance standards to every translation, automatically. Every market reflects the same approved terminology and brand standards — reducing the risk of off-brand or non-compliant content going live.
